

Amendments to the Abstract:

Please replace the Abstract with the following:

The present invention provides a method of classifying defects wherein defects are detected in a first inspection machine. The detected defects are then reviewed by a second inspection machine. A sampling rate for review by the second inspection machine is determined by a defect classifier in the first inspection machine.